Worthen girl killed in wreck

State police investigate fatal crash

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Illinois State Police are still investigating a fatal car crash that occurred Sunday on Horseshoe Lake Road.

Natasha Urkewich, 8, a kindergarten student at Worthen School in Granite City, was killed when the car she was riding in collided with another vehicle on Horseshoe Lake Road about 1/2 mile east of Illinois 162.

Three other people were injured in the accident.

The driver of the car, Natasha's mother Karen Urkewich, 30, of Granite City, was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City, and then transferred to St. Louis University Medical Center in St. Louis, where she was in fair condition Tuesday.

"No matter what you do, it is never enough."

Jacob Thomas, 4, a passenger in the car, was released from Cardinal Glennon Children's Hospital on Monday.

The driver of the second vehicle, Isidro Segovia, 28, of Granite City, was treated and released at SEMO.

According to state police reports, at about 5:15 p.m. Sunday the Urkewich car, a 1992 Chevrolet Prism, was eastbound on Horseshoe Lake Road

Water rates going up

Overflowing

By Mark Hodepp
Staff writer

The Illinois Commerce Commission voted Monday to allow Illinois American Water Company to increase rates for water service.

The average residential customer monthly bill in the company's southern district will increase approximately 7.4 cents per day, or $2.26 per month, excluding fire protection charge.

The 9.2 percent increase will affect residents who live in Belleville, East St. Louis, Granite City and many surrounding communities, including parts of St. Louis.

Commercial customers also will see an average rate increase of 9.7 percent, while industrial customers will see an increase of 6.1 percent.

The new rates are expected to take effect by year end and produce $3.9 million in additional gross revenue.

"Ideally, we wish we never had to do this," said the company's president.

Mayor's Christmas nets 500 presents for needy kids

By Scott Kelly
Staff writer

Hundreds of area children will enjoy a special present this Christmas.

Numerous area merchants donated gifts at the 12th annual Mayor's Reception Christmas Dec. 15 at St.

Gregory's Armenian Community Center.

This year, approximately 500 presents of all shapes and sizes were received. The presents were to go to needy children and to adults with special circumstances, such as those with Down's Syndrome.

"Every year it grows," said Mayor or Ron Selph. So much so that this year bigger facilities were needed to handle all the people involved.

Belleville Area College and the National Honor Society of Granite City High School served as hosts for the evening, which included dinner.

The mayor's staff was unable to

Banker to head Leadership group

By Becky Vollmer
Telegraph staff writer

A local banker has taken the helm of Leadership Council Southwestern Illinois, an economic development organization that promotes regional investment.

Robert A. Wetzel, president of the Bank of Edwardsville, has been named chairman of the organization that is entering its 15th year.

"There is no doubt that the Illinois portion of the St. Louis region — East County — is the future of St. Louis," Wetzel said.

Wetzel was the organization's chairman for 1997 but assumed the role of president when Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville Chancellor Nancy Beck resigned earlier this year to take a job in Nebraska.

The other officers installed for 1998 are:

- Thomas E. Holloway, president of St. Clair Region Magna Bank, who was appointed president of the organization;

- Philip B. Schwin, president and chief operating officer of Shell Wood River Refining Co., who was named vice president;
- Dennis E. Bielke, president of Union Bank of Illinois, named treasurer; and

- Ted Ellerman, president and chief executive officer of St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City, appointed secretary.

Madison will have probation offices

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

Instead of making probationers come to their offices, their officers soon will come to them.

Satellite offices of the Madison County Probation Department will open early next year in Madison and East Alton. Leasing of the offices was approved Wednesday by the Madison County Board.

For the Madison location, the former City Hall at 1528 Third St. will be used. In East Alton, the satellite office will take over the second floor of the village's Vital Services building.

Darrell McGibany, director of probation and court services, said the new offices should open sometime in February or March. McGibany said Madison is the second county in the state — following the example of Cook County — to institute such a program.

"Through these satellite offices we hope to have a greater presence in the community," McGibany said. "We'll be closer to the offenders, giving us a greater opportunity."

NEWS IN REVIEW

Editor's note: News in Review provides a summary of some of the past week's stories. This column is intended for our off-town readers who do not receive the Sunday and Wednesday Press-Record-Journals.

Officials aggravated at law's wording

Simple wording can mean the difference between a light or heavy jail sentence in many robbery cases. Working in tandem with Madison County State's Attorney William Haise, State Rep. Jay Hoffman (D-Collinsville) will introduce legislation to redefine aggravated robbery.

The two joined Edwardsville Chief of Police Bennett Dickmann on Dec. 17 in a joint press conference in Edwardsville announcing the initiative.

The new legislation would include robberies or holdups committed with a deadly weapon such as a knife, club, or even an ax — as an aggravated robbery. Currently state law only considers robberies committed with a gun to be aggravated robbery.

The gun crime is considered a Class 1 felony with a mandatory jail term of four to 15 years and up to a $10,000 fine. However, currently using a knife or other weapon carries a lesser sentence, which the three men hope to change.

Scam artist captured

Granite City Police arrested Lavonda H. Moore of Kirkpatrick Homes on Thursday, charging her with Class 1 felony theft. On at least six different occasions, Moore allegedly scammed Granite City area residents out of at least $1,200, police said.

Dot Ken Rozell said Moore would approach intended victims and tell them a relative of theirs was in jail, and she was their friend and needed money to bail the relative out.

The victims would hand over sometimes hundreds of dollars. Moore would sometimes come back and ask for more.

Electric utility deregulation OK'd

Gov. Jim Edgar signed legislation Dec. 18 to deregulate Illinois' electric utility industry, a move expected to promote competition and save customers an estimated $640 million in service costs in the first full year.

Residential and commercial consumers will begin seeing rate reductions starting in August next year.

Customers will also have the right to choose their supplier in a manageable schedule that won't overwhelm existing infrastructure. The legislation also provides more than $76 million in energy assistance funding for low-income residents, and about $10 million for renewable resources and clean coal technology development.

Terminal Railroad sentenced

Terminal Railroad Association of St. Louis was sentenced Dec. 5 to an information charging it with crimes against the environment. Terminal pleaded guilty Sept. 3 before the United States District Court in East St. Louis to two felony counts under the Clean Water Act, agreed to pay a fine of $500,000 and agreed to pay restitution to the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA) for emergency response costs estimated at $26,073.

IEPA is supervising Terminal's cleanup of the contaminated site. The Court also sentenced Terminal to the maximum three years probation, directing Terminal to comply with the law and the clean-up directive from the IEPA.

Christmas Eve

PONTIAC BAPTIST CHURCH: The Pontiac Baptist Church, 4000 Highway 111 in Pontiac, Ill., will observe the eve of Christ's birth with a service at 7 p.m. on Wednesday. The service will include readings, familiar carols and candle-lighting from 5 to 5:30 p.m. Wednesday. Worshipers are encouraged to dress informally for this brief but meaningful observance. For more information or a ride, call 931-1316.

ST. JOHN UNITED CHURCH OF CHRIST: Christmas Eve candlelight service begins with prelude at 10:30 p.m. Dec. 24, with the service beginning at 11 p.m. at St. John United Church of Christ, 2901 Nameoki Road.

Madison

CANCELLATION: It is with much regret that the Concerned Citizens of West Madison announces the cancellation of "Christmas in West Madison" for 1997. All donations received will be returned to the respective donors.

Granite City

RECYCLED TREES: The Granite City Park District will accept discarded Christmas trees until Jan. 10, 1998. Trees must be free of any plastic,insel,or ornaments. Community residents (not for commercial use) may place the trees at the drop-off site, which is clearly marked, at the 29th Street turnaround, near the Centennial Pavilion in Wilson Park.

The trees will be chipped and may be used as mulch. The mulch will be available free to the public. Call the Wilson Park Office at 877-3059 after Jan. 10.

SIUE

ARTS AND ISSUES SERIES: Civil rights attorney Morris Dees will speak at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 22 on the campus of Southern Illinois University.

Time is running out

Christmas shoppers hit fast-forward for last-second gifts

By Jean Abernathy
Staff writer

Counting today, there is one shopping day left until Christmas. And many of us haven't finished our holiday shopping.

According to Maritz America, 25 percent of Americans finish shopping two to six days before Christmas; 20 percent don't finish until Christmas Eve; and 6 percent finish on Christmas or later.

Though time is running out, there is no need to panic (unless, of course, you must ship gifts across the globe).

There is still time to select thoughtful, creative gifts for your friends and loved ones. Gift certificates are easy and thoughtful gifts for young and old alike. Movie theaters, video rentals, salons, restaurants and a myriad of stores sell gift certificates. Do you know what restaurant the recipient likes? If so, head over there and purchase a gift certificate. To make the gift extra-special, attach the certificate to a bottle of wine (his or her favorite wine if you know it — if not, merlot is a nice selection).

If the recipient likes to go to movies, Weinberg and AMC theaters sell gift certificate books. The certificates can be used for popcorn and Junior Mints as well as admission to the movie. Movie lovers of all ages will appreciate this gift. It is an especially good idea for the hard-to-please adolescent. If the recipient likes to stay home and rent movies, head over to the video store.

Does your mother-in-law have her hair fixed every week at the same salon (in the same style, no less)? Most salons sell gift certificates. How about a certificate for a cover? This is a good gift to give, as a hint, to that aunt whose cheeks are too rosy and eyelids are too blue.

Think of the person for whom you are purchasing the certificate. If he is an athlete, try a sports store. If she is into music, try Streetside or Best Buy.

Knowing my husband always wanted to learn to fly, I got him started one year with a gift certificate for five flying lessons. There are certificates for just about anything.

Many of us find the most difficult person to shop for is the elderly relative who doesn't need another figurine or tie. (See TIME, Page 9A)

Pol shows gifts often bought late

Here are some sobering statistics about holiday shopping, as compiled by Maritz America:

- Nearly 25 percent of American men finish their holiday shopping the day before Christmas, and men are twice as likely as women to still be buying gifts on Christmas Day — or later.
- There is no real surprise here.
- Thirty-three percent of respondents said they start buying gifts one to two months ahead of time. Another 22 percent buy Christmas gifts two to four months before Dec. 25.

- About 15 percent of the holiday shoppers say they have shopped for gifts after 6 p.m. on Christmas Eve, and 8 percent have tried to find a store open on Christmas day.
- At least 41 percent of those polled plan to shop the day after Christmas.

- Americans will spend an average of $474 of Christmas gifts this year. Does that mean the average family of four will spend $1,896?

- A majority of Americans, 56 percent, set a spending budget for Christmas gifts. Less than half of those with a budget actually stick to it.

Study to find use for Parks College

By Jason White,
Staff writer

Parks College, a place where students once studied, is now a topic of study itself.

Ever since the last students departed last spring, numerous agencies and experts have tried to determine uses for the vacant 16-building, 113-acre campus. Ideas have ranged from a site for light industry to a youth recreation center to additional classroom space for Cahokia's public schools.

The southwestern Illinois Planning Commission is now ready to put the ideas together. The Cahokia Board of Trustees last week voted to pay for the study that started Nov. 4 and ends Aug. 30.

The village will pay $2,500 in two installments from the tax increment financing fund. The U.S. Economic Development Administration awarded a $24,500 grant this summer for the study.

"SWIMPAC is going to be the middle person to put it all together and bring it back to us," Mayor Mike King said. "Trustee Joe Livigni made the motion to approve the agreement."

"The more spoons you put in the pot, maybe you'll dredge something up," Livigni said after the meeting.

According to the agreement, SWIMPAC will:

- Analyze the property's capabilities, including geography, transportation, marketing, and determine potential commercial, industrial and residential uses;
- Determine how the uses could support and expand the local manufacturing base;
- Propose a financial package for the uses;
- Determine how to market proposed uses to potential users;
- Prepare a written report for the EDA.

In August, St. Louis-based Development Strategies Inc.

presented the results of a $50,000 study to a panel of state and local officials. An Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs grant paid for the study.

DSI's two-month study found that site's best private use would be businesses that augment the Illinois 3 industrial corridor. The campus could be used for additional lab space, training facilities, research and development or light manufacturing, according to the study.

State Rep. Wyvetter Younge (D-East St. Louis) said a variety of educational institutions are interested in Parks.

Lambert expansion steps up

Area officials welcome environmental report

By Harry Colbert
and Kelli Hauser
Staff writers

The city of St. Louis celebrated Christmas a little early this week.

The Federal Aviation Administration released the Final Environmental Impact Statement Monday, singling out Lambert St. Louis International Airport's chosen expansion plan, W-1W, as the preferred plan.

Welcomed by a variety of elected officials and civic leaders as a step closer to a modern airport, the FEIS all but assures a favorable Record of Decision will be issued.

"This is a major milestone for the city of St. Louis," Mayor Clarence Harmon said. "We are on the right track. We know exactly where we're going. It is W-1W."

It's important for us to understand in order for us to move ahead as a community

"The announcement ... by the FAA is good news for the entire St. Louis region, and, yes, even for those of us who happen to live in Illinois."

John Baricevic
St. Clair County Board Chairman

We have to add a first-class airport," he said.

The FAA evaluated three possibilities in preparing the FEIS: alternative X-1, the no-action plan; alternative S-1, the south plan; and alternative W-1W, the west plan.

In the FEIS the FAA acknowledges that "Alternative S-1 is superior from an operational standpoint." However, taking all things into consideration, the FAA stated that W-1W was chosen because of cost and because it was the airport's preferred plan.

W-1W comes in at an estimated $2.2 billion as compared to the S-1 plan, which would cost an estimated $2.5 billion.

Both plans rated comparably in terms of noise and environmental impacts.

W-1W affects about one-third of the city of Bridgeton.

The release of the FEIS was good news for Bridgeton, bringing the city one step closer to a Record of Decision and subsequent state and federal lawsuits, Bridgeton Mayor Conrad Bowers said.

"This was fully expected," Bowers said. "We need it, and let's move on."

St. Clair County Board Chairman John Baricevic said Lambert's expansion is eagerly anticipated by St. Clair and Mid-America Airport officials.

"The announcement of the FEIS by the FAA is good news for the entire St. Louis region, and, yes, even for those of us who happen to live in Illinois," Baricevic said.

Baricevic said continued expansion of Lambert St. Louis International Airport is essential to the continued development of the entire metropolitan area.

"Mid-America Airport and St. Clair County are strong supporters and have been strong supporters of the expansion plan at Lambert," Baricevic said. "St. Louis and Lambert need a reliever airport and that's the role that Mid-America will continue to play."

St. Clair County Transportation Director Robert Coverdale agreed with Baricevic.

"I think it's in the region's best interest for Lambert to be able to accommodate more air traffic. It's important to expand wherever feasible to accommodate air traffic," Coverdale said.

Two sought, charged in Venice invasion

Venice police Tuesday charged one suspect and were seeking formal charges against another in a Monday home invasion.

Two suspects are apparently still at large. One, Abby Smith of the 1000 block of Market Street, was charged with one count of home invasion, with bond set at $100,000.

According to reports, at about 4:15 p.m. Monday, police responded to a report of a theft in the 1000 block of Market. An officer found the door of the house had been smashed in.

The victim, and 83-year-old man, said he had been sitting at his kitchen table when someone knocked on the door.

As he was getting up to answer it, the door was smashed down and a man entered his home, telling the victim to get down on the floor or he would be shot. The victim noticed his neighbor standing in the doorway.

The alleged assailant reportedly said he had a gun in his pocket, but no weapon was displayed. After taking the victim's money, the two left.

have rate increases," Illinois-American Water Company President Ray Lee said. "But the fact is this area was developed in the 1890s and 1920s."

"Now it's time to replace the aging infrastructure, which includes our treatment plants and distribution systems, some of which are more than 100 years old."

All new revenues will support these capital investments, which will assure reliable delivery of safe, high-quality water, he said.

In 1997-98, the company will have invested $28.9 million to improve operations of the southern division service areas, including $4.2 million in distribution system improvements to help increase water flow and pressure.

An Edwardsville man was charged with numerous traffic violations after being stopped by two different Madison police officers in a two-hour period.

Michael A. Kyro, 31, of the 100 block of Fifth Avenue, Edwardsville, was stopped at 8:17 p.m. Monday at the intersection of Harrison and Illinois 203 after an officer noticed his vehicle — a 1996 Ford pickup, had no rear registration light.

When asked to produce a license and proof of insurance card, he told police he left them at home.

Kyro was cited for having no registration light, operating an uninsured motor vehicle, no registration and no drivers' license.

At 10:20 p.m., Kyro was stopped by another Madison officer in the 1800 block of Sec-

He was charged with operating an uninsured motor vehicle, having no rear registration light, an expired registration and having only one taillight.

In other police news, a Cahokia man wanted on several warrants including three probation violations was arrested Monday afternoon.

Eugene Moore, 37, of Cahokia, was spotted riding in a car by a Madison officer near Market Street and Washington Avenue.

Moore was wanted by Madison County for unlawful possession of a controlled substance with intent to deliver, three separate parole violations, and failure to appear on a Madison Police Department warrant for resisting arrest.

Greenville alum reflects on fire death at college

This past Thursday, exactly one week before Christmas, the body of Joel Pierce was laid to rest in the soft, cool earth of North Kingtown, R.I.

Joel was 22 years old. He was to have been married Saturday. He was anticipating Christmas with a new wife and a long, happy future together.

Pat Heston

Instead, Joel is dead. He died from smoke inhalation during a fire at Greenville (Ill.) College in the early morning hours of Dec. 9. Seven other male students were taken to Ullat Memorial Hospital in Greenville, where they were treated and released.

Joel was the unfortunate one. He was found lying in the hallway just outside the door to his room in Kinney Hall. Whatever he was trying to do — he died on a stairwell — fatal journey only a few steps from where he had been sleeping peacefully just minutes before.

On Dec. 11, approximately 750 people attended an emotional memorial service on campus. Rick McPeak, professor of religion, said of Price, "Although the quantity of his life was not as long as we would have expected, the quality of his life was remarkable."

What makes the tragedy more than just another in a long list of annual holiday fire fatalities — at least, to me — is that I am Greenville born and bred. I am a Greenville College alum. This fire burned closer to home than others about which I have heard or read.

Joel was a junior religion major with plans of spending his life in service to God. Instead, his life was spent in a short span of a score and two years.

Life at its best is vulnerable, fragile, unpredictable. We live with no guarantee of tomorrow, no promise of reaching our peak. The tender thread upon which we hang our hopes and build our dreams and parlay our plans can snap at the slightest strain and with a gut-wrenching suddenness. Like a delicate ornament suspended from a Christmas tree, life is fragile. Life can break.

Life broke for Joel. It broke for his fiance and his family. It broke for his friends. An irreplaceable treasure gone in an instant. And, if that weren't heart-breaking enough, it's Christmas. Peace, joy and happiness; love, hope and life they seem out of place in the face of a life freshly broken.

What can be said about God at a time like this, Christmas not withstanding?

If nothing else, it can at least be said that God has the guts to take his own medicine.

In the most overlooked account of the Christmas Story in Christian Scripture, the Apostle Paul said that Jesus, "who being in very nature God, did not consider equality with God something to be grasped, but made himself nothing, taking the very nature of a servant, being made in human likeness. And being found in appearance as a man, he humbled himself and became obedient to death — even death on a cross." (Philippians 2:6-8)

God entered life as vulnerable as a newborn baby. Life for him was an incredibly fragile journey. And one day, in the 33rd year of that journey, life abruptly broke for God.

At its very heart, Christmas does not promise that life doesn't break, no matter what the head-in-the-clouds dreamers may say. Far from it, Christmas isn't about life not breaking. Christmas is about the coming together of life's broken pieces in the person whose life was once broken for us.

Joel believed that. Peace, joy and happiness; love, hope and life — these are not the sentimental strains of a storybook Christmas, strangely out of place amid life's, or death's, stern and bitter realities. They are, instead, the hard, cold facts of Christmas. Just as hard and cold as life itself can be.

The tragic death of Joel Pierce is a painful but important reminder of the facts, of the true meaning of Christmas. Life breaks. Life comes back together.

HAPPY HOLIDAYS

Getting into the Christmas spirits

Scott Cousins

It's Christmas again, and two things we can count on are multiple viewings of "It's A Wonderful Life" and various versions of "A Christmas Carol."

Whether it's the black and white or "color" version, Frank Capra's tale of a profoundly decent man who has a very bad day has been thrilling audiences ever since the original copyright had expired and they didn't have to pay anybody for showing it.

And Dickens' little book — if you've ever read any of his other novels, you will realize how small it is — has been redone for stage and screen many times, including musicals and cartoon versions. My own personal favorites are the original book, which should really be read out loud with feeling for the full effect, and the George C. Scott television version.

And that's great. After all, who doesn't get a little teary-eyed when George Bailey is proclaimed "the richest man in town."

And don't you just feel happy thinking about old Ebenezer jumping up and down on his bed "giddy as a drunken man" and flipping that "intelligent lad" half a crown for running to the poulterers.

Who wouldn't like that? I'll tell you who, the same guy who would steal your last can of Who Hash.

But I don't think it goes far enough.

We dab our eyes and go on about our business, maybe taking a little time to ponder the real messages, when what we really need is a visit from those spirits.

What good person wouldn't benefit from a little talk with Clarence the Angel?

At least in this life, most good and decent people go their whole lives without ever really knowing the effects of their time on this earth. That is especially sad for those who fight the good fight, but are beaten down because they never realize what they have accomplished.

And who doesn't know somebody who could really benefit from a visit by Jacob Marley's three friends?

Although I've always had a fondness for the Ghost of Christmas Present (if I every get to be in a stage production of "A Christmas Carol" want to play him, mostly because he gets to yell at Scrooge), my favorite is the Dark Man, the Ghost of Christmas Yet To Come.

Tall, dark and silent as the grave, he is the Grim Reaper, and he is there on business. By the time he's through, if you haven't figured it out it's too late.

His is probably the most important visit, because he hammers home the message of the other two. In our wishy-washy society, he is the cold hard reality that will not accept excuses, but demands results.

That would scare the bejebers out of anybody, and everybody needs that once or twice in their life.

After all, look at what it did for Scrooge.

"And it was said of him, that he knew how to keep Christmas, if any man possessed the knowledge."

Have a merry Christmas, and may you get a visit from the spirit you deserve. God bless us, every one.

Holiday season brings farewell to old friend

Well, it's Christmas Eve, and I hope by now you have all that shopping done. I hope you better get started while you are sitting at the breakfast table reading this. I'm probably sitting on the mall parking lot waiting for it to open.

This is the time of the year when one usually takes a little time to reflect on the past year and to look at the year to come. It is somewhat of a sad time for me for I have lost a friend. At a time when I should be celebrating, I find myself reflecting back on memories of years gone by.

This particular friend played a big part in my life over the years and had a big influence in what I am doing today. Through this friend, I made a lot of friends, and I continue to maintain many of those to this day. There are many whose lives will be affected by the passing of my friend, and we will not actually realize the impact for some time.

Who is this person, you ask, that could have such an impact on so many people? Well actually it is not a person, but a place. This place has influenced generations of farming families over the past 125 years. This place is the St. Louis Annual Stockyards, Dec. 23, 1997, was the day we laid to rest what had become a way of life for many and a friend to others.

Life as we know it in the livestock industry around the bi-state area will change. Some will simply give it up, and others will have to change their marketing practices. I think we will find out how much we miss our friend in the months to come. Sure there will be other places to sell livestock in the area, but it may not be as convenient as the yards were. I hope that the livestock industry will be able to work its way through the change and continue to be a part of our lives. I just want to say goodbye, old friend, it has been fun.

That's enough said about that. After all, it is Christmas Eve and it is supposed to be the happiest time of the year, so let's get out the eggnog, Grandma's cookies and a big ham. Don't forget to water the tree, (only the real ones) and have a great time.

The Schumacher family — Pam, Vicki, Christy and myself — wants to wish all of you a safe Merry Christmas.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Kudos to Santa's Holiday Avenue

TO THE EDITOR: Santa's Holiday Avenue, replete with impressive lighting, drummer boy replicas and even a horse-drawn carriage, is an absolute delight. Santa's cabin is, of course, the main attraction — or, rather, the look of wonderment on the faces of the children in his lap.

Who can ignore the priceless look of awe and amazement as orders are given to fulfill that ever-growing Christmas list?

The entire community owes a vote of thanks to all the persons involved in getting Santa back to Granite City. Shame on all of us for letting him go in the first place. Whoever heard of children having to go to another town to visit jolly ole St. Nicholas? BAH! HUMBUG! We all need to support the efforts to insure his annual return.

From all the children, parents and grandparents who thoroughly delighted from Santa's Holiday Avenue, we send a jolly Ho! Ho! Ho!

Vigilance price of freedom

TO THE EDITOR: It is beyond comprehension how "our" lawmakers can constitutionally justify, or create "out of thin air," political entities such as SWARTAC, and then confer upon it the right of eminent domain. Such entities acquire an individual's property through condemnation and then turn it over to one or several developers.

Recent news articles have brought to light how our individual freedoms, and the right of individuals to own property, are being constantly eroded away. Three cases in point are the new proposed shopping center in Fairview Heights, the race track in Madison, and the industrial park in Mitchell.

Veterans' Day is past but there is still time to reflect on the sacrifices of thousands of our armed service personnel. My own family has collectively over 10 years of service to this country at time of war to protect our individual rights from threats abroad. We are now losing these rights from within.

As our forefathers knew only too well, the price of freedom is eternal vigilance. Has this generation fell asleep at the very feet of the lady with the torch?

Stranger returns found money

TO THE EDITOR: Finders keepers, losers weepers is usually the case but not on Saturday, Dec. 13.

I would sincerely thank the woman who picked up an envelope with money in it and turned it in at the Mrs. Seibold's Bake Shop on Namecki Road in the Belleme Village Shopping Center. I did not realize it was missing until about 1 p.m. I took a chance on returning to the bakery to see if anyone turned it in. The money must have slipped out of my pocket when I made a purchase there, without me realizing it.

This was an incredible thing for someone to do. There was no identification or even a deposit ticket in the bank envelope with $100 in cash. All I have heard on the news is watch your pockets and purse — this is the season to beware.

This is a perfect example of honesty (and) Christianity. We have all learned something from this experience. We have learned that there are still a few great people in this world.

Dec. 13 was also my 40th birthday. This was the best gift of all.

Again, thank you.

Christmas merriment

Hargrove, shed a different light on the expansion.

"The master plan shows if the expansion is completed by 2002, the lines for demand and capacity will be very close to crossing," Hargrove said. "Beyond 2002, demand exceeds capability."

Richard Fleming, St. Louis Regional Commerce and Growth Association president, said the release of the FEIS is a historic moment for the city.

"Clearly, we have a green light today from the FAA after probably the most exhaustive environmental impact study ever done on a project in this region," Fleming said.

Officials agreed that the FEIS takes Lambert one step closer to obtaining its Record of Decision, which is key to the city's plans for airport expansion.

Lambert Director Col. Leonard Griggs said he is optimistic that the Record of Decision, which could be released as soon as 30 days, will give Lambert the go-ahead to proceed with W-1W.

"We kept saying we're going to get a favorable environmental impact statement, which we did get," he said. "This is not a Record of Decision, this has to be sent over the public docket. I'm not aware of any smoking guns, I'm not aware of any dark alleys anybody has to go down. I'm not aware of any surprises."

Griggs said the city and the airport are prepared for litigation and confident in FAA's report.

"I don't think Bridgeton can has done a thorough enough job that if they are in fact — because if Bridgeton sues, Bridgeton will sue the FAA — that the document is well done enough that when it's issued it will withstand any battle scars that they can give to it."

Another factor to contend with is opposition from the city of St. Charles. Residents and officials have opposed W-1W due to the increased noise it would bring to the city.

"St. Charles can't stop the program," Griggs said. "St. Charles is on the other side of the 65 LDN (noise contour) which is something that's been overlooked by an awful lot of people. We're working very closely with St. Charles."

"We want to make sure that they understand that W-1W is not going to cause adverse impact on their neighborhoods."

Griggs said anything except a favorable Record of Decision would be unprecedented.

"From my experience in 20 years in aviation, there never has been to the best of my knowledge a federal Record of Decision that's ever been overturned or stopped," he said.

The FEIS is available to the public and can be picked up at

Graff's big night still best in areaBy Patrick C. Heston
Staff writer

From Tony Atchison of Greenville to Ryan Blaha of Belleville to Maurice Baker of Madison, high school players in southern Illinois are posting big-time numbers on the basketball court this season.

A 40-point night is not rare this year, and fans are loving the entertaining series of one-man offensive explosions.

But it's all small change when compared to performances of the past.

The first player from the Journal Newspapers of Southern Illinois region to scale the 50-point barrier was Rick Maurer of Freeburg, who poured in 60 points on 23 field goals and 14 free throws in a game against New Baden on Feb. 19, 1954.

Since then, 10 other area players have scored 50 or better in a game.

The list is headed by Glen Graff of Duplo. Graff, a 6-foot-3 forward, scored 75 points against Waterloo in Feb. 17, 1956. The total stands as the seventh-highest single-game scoring mark in state history.

Okawville's Dave Luchtefeld scored 64 against Vergennes on Feb. 22, 1957; Highland St. Paul's Francis Lovejoy netted 63 against Bunker Hill on Jan. 24, 1958; Craig Manwaring of Highland scorched the nets for 58 against in-town rival St. Paul on Feb. 27, 1957; Darryl Winston of Lovejoy hit for 58 against Jefferson City (Mo.) Lincoln on Jan. 19, 1973; Glen Chatham of Lovejoy hit for 58 against Waterloo in 1972 (a game won by Lovejoy 150-39); Terry McKire of Lovejoy struck for 52 against Morrisville on Jan. 30, 1969; Granite City's own Terry Ripka hit Madison with a 51-point outburst on Feb. 11, 1972; and a quintet of players scored an even 50 points — Tom Parker of Collinsville, Mike Chambliss of Belleville, St. Henry's Steve Diecker of Marietta, Kris Jenner of Mascoutah, and John Strubberg of Belleville St. Henry.

Ironically, on the same night that Ripka scored 51 against Madison, Strubberg hit for 50 against Valmeyer.

Graff's mark of 75 points in a game has stood as the standard for a remarkable 42 years. But despite the four-decade span, Graff still remembers the night it all happened.

"We had a very good ball club at Duplo," he remembered. "We were better in 1955 — we lost in the sectional to Alton in double overtime, and Alton made it the way to Champaign — but we brought back three key starters and were a very strong team in 1956. We were an experienced club and that night we were up against Waterloo, a team full of very young, made up mostly of sophomores. We knew going in that it would be a rather easy game."

So easy, in fact, that Duplo coach Paul Taylor was concerned about only one thing: getting Graff the Cahokia Conference scoring record. And that meant getting Graff the ball.

"I really felt bad, especially in the second half," said the self-described shy farm kid. "My teammates were turning down open shots, easy points, in order to pass the ball to me. I was very uncomfortable with that, but it's the way Coach Taylor wanted to play it, so everyone just went along with it. We had one focus as a team, and that was the conference scoring record."

"I remember that Waterloo had a pair of 6-4 kids," Graff recalled. "I could play inside or out, but that night I took them outside because I was quicker than they were. It was one of those nights where I had a hot hand, one of those nights — as you put it now-days — I was in a zone. I'd hit four or five shots in a row, miss one, then hit seven in a row. It was like that all night."

Graff bagged 30 field goals that night, and was a respectable 15-for-23 from the free-throw line.

Though casual observers of the game might wonder why such scoring marks are seldom challenged in an age of 3-point arcs and run-and-gun offenses, those who've been around for a

Warriors' best ever?

Sullivan's '60 squad had talent, character

By Patrick C. Heston
Staff writer

There was no way of telling in a season-opening 55-54 win over Cahokia that the 1959-60 Granite City Warriors were destined for greatness.

Yet, that Andy Sullivan-coached crew of all-stars, Rich Williams and Bob Price, Frank Knight, Jim Simpson, Carl Wortham and super-sub Harry Cook and Harry Smith beat the state's two top-ranked teams on its way to the state tournament, and is remembered yet today as, perhaps, the greatest basketball team ever produced at GCHS.

After being soundly beaten 74-55 at Collinsville in the third game of the year, the Warriors regrouped quickly, reeling off seven straight wins and roaring to a second place finish in the prestigious Centralia Holiday Tournament. Granite City crushed the host Orphans 70-50 in the semifinals, but could not survive a disastrous 24-10 first quarter disadvantage against Pinckneyville in the championship game, losing to the Panthers 66-59.

Williams, who had been injured in the semifinals and was wearing protective head gear, scored 25 points in the title tilt and was named to the all-tournament first team. Price was a second-team selection.

The Warriors raised their season total to 13-2 before losing back-to-back games to Alton (66-61), in the quarterfinal round of the Duplo Invitational Tournament, and to Collinsville (69-59). Only Duplo, with 6-foot-9 Kendall Rhine and 6-6 LeRoy Hogue, dented the Granite armor after that, tipping the Warriors 66-62 late in the year.

GCHS entered the Collinsville Regional with a mark of

Team thrived without big man in middle

By Patrick C. Heston
Staff writer

The 1959-60 Granite City Warriors reached the state basketball tournament despite a glaring weakness.

It was not a lack of shooting skills. The team could hit field goals at a near-50 per cent clip and shot even deadlier—80 percent—from the line.

And it was not a lack of quickness. The team moved with cat-like reflexes, was unfazed by a press, and could pound the ball like a bill collector working for commission.

And it certainly was not a lack of basketball talent. This team could play with the best of them and was as deep top-to-bottom as any team in the state in 1960.

But what the team did lack was a big man in the paint. "What we lacked in 1960 that we would have made us a true state championship contender was a big man, a guy 6-7 or 6-8 on the inside," said Andy Sullivan, who coached that journey entry from 38 years ago. "Jim Simpson was our tallest player at 6-3, and he was a scant 6-3. But back then there were guys like George (See TEAM, Page 3B)"

The Madison that might have been

By Patrick C. Heston
Staff writer

Imagine a high school basketball team with a starting lineup featuring three all-stars. Imagine that same team with a bench better than most starting units in the state. Imagine that team winning back-to-back Illinois state championships in a one-class setting. Now imagine that team being the Madison Trojans.

Madison made the state tournament in 1959 with a roster including Don Hysko, Ed Modrusick, Ed Walker, Jake Young, Delancy Scott, Bob Simpson, Fred Riddle and Bob Price.

Price's pair of free throws sank 26-1 Alton in double-overtime to open regional play that year, and another pair with 16 seconds left in the sectional semifinals edged Jerseyville 61-59. The Trojans then and Centralia to win the sectional before losing in the state quarterfinals to Waukegan.

Three years later, in 1962, Madison finished the regular season with a spotless 24-0 record, ranked third in the state. Leader of the team was all-state senior Don Freeman, arguably the greatest player ever produced at Madison High School. The Trojans advanced to the sectional title game where they met 23-4 Belleville Madison led 41-36 at the half. But when Freeman fouled out with 1:12 remaining in the third quarter and the score tied at 50, the Maroons made their move. Belleville claimed the state tournament berth with a pulsating 71-68 triumph, ending the Trojans' season at 28-1.

But it was those in-between years of 1960 and 1961 that were full of promise for the boys of coach Earl McClanahan.

Then came the exodus.

Rich Williams had already left Madison for Granite City and had led the Southern Conference in scoring as a member of the Warriors teams of 1958 and 1959.

"One-on-one, Williams was almost impossible to stop," said one-time Madison teammate Bob Simpson. "He was so incredibly quick. That was his true strength as a ball player. And he had such a great shot. Even in junior high, he had great basketball sense and always knew what to do at any given moment on the floor."

Harry Cook and, later, Bob Price also left Madison for Granite City, and played with Williams on the Warriors' 1960 state tournament entry.

"Price could take a game over," said Simpson. "He was at his best along the baseline, but could kill you from 15 feet on in. He was the catalyst of the 1959 Madison team, carrying them to state. Fred Riddle was still a year away from coming into his own."

"Riddle was underrated playing alongside Bogie Redmon at Collinsville," said Simpson. "Remember, he had started as a freshman for Madison. I'm convinced he would have been an all-American, not simply an all-star, if he hadn't shared the floor with Redmon."

Riddle, Price and Williams went on to become all-state players at their respective schools. Riddle and Simpson played for Vergil Fletcher on Collinsville's 32-0 state championship team of 1961.

Had the three of them, along with Simpson, remained at Madison, joined by Cook, Walker, Hysko, Modrusick, Young and sophomore Freeman, the sky may well have been the limit for the Trojans

Warriors fall from ranks of unbeaten

Hazelwood Central put the first blemish on the Granite City Warriors' season last night, skating to a 5-2 win on Dec. 8 in Mid-States Club Hockey Association action, dropping the Warriors record to 5-1-0.

"We came out flat in the game, and never got up to snuff," said a disappointed Dave Yurkovich, the Warriors' head coach. "Defensively, we played a very poor game. We gave up a pair of power play goals and one short-handed goal. You can't do that and win. And every time we had a chance to get back in the game, we would take a stupid penalty that would keep us from coming back."

Granite City started in a hole as Hazelwood Central scored at 12:01 of the super-period to take a 1-0 lead. Then at the 2:35 mark, with the Warriors on a power play, an errant pass was intercepted by a central player who skated in alone on goal and buried the puck in the back of the net. The score buried the Warriors under a 2-0 deficit after one period.

At 7:28 of the second period, Granite City cut into that deficit on a Bobby Pritchard score off assists from Jon Burns and Bobby Harris. With the Warriors in a power play, Harris sent the puck low where Burns gained control, skated into open space and sent a sharp pass to Pritchard who fired through traffic for the score, drawing the Warriors within 2-1.

But Hazelwood Central countered with a power play goal just 52 seconds from the While know that the free throw is the key element in scoring records. And in a day and age like Graff's, when foul shots were taken every time a foul was whistled, points could mount up in a hurry while the clock was motionless.

"I look back after all these years and wonder how in the world I ever scored 75 points," Graff confessed. "I mean, I could always score a lot of points — I had games of 35 and 40 points in college — but 75 points ... that's almost unbelievable. And I'm the one who did it."

Graff went to Louisiana College in Pineville, where he scored 1,272 points from 1957-60 against competition that included LSU, Auburn and Alabama. He later coached at Louisiana College for 18 years. For the past 25 years, he has headed International Connections, a business which trains people to operate their own business in the home.

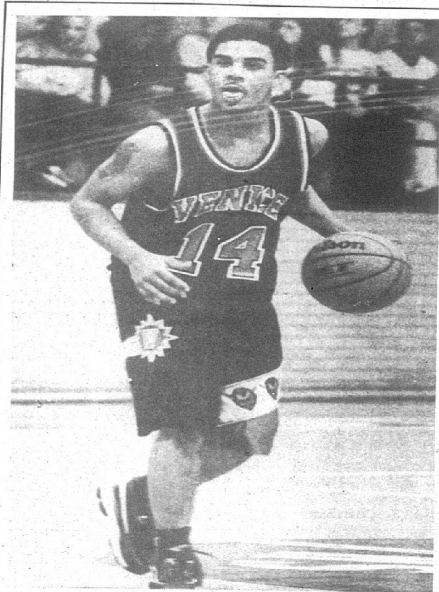

"I guess I'm kind of surprised my record still stands," said Graff. "There have been some awfully good scorers come and go since I last played at Dupo. One thing is for sure, though: 75 points against Waterloo is a night I'll never forget."

'Skate for Miracles' at U.S. Ice Complex

The St. Louis Blues and honorary chairman Chris Pronger have announced tickets are available for the "Blues Skate for Miracles" charity benefit for the Children's Miracle Network. Formerly known as "Kids Night Out with the Blues," this marks the sixth annual event the Blues and Children's Miracle Network have hosted together to raise funds for Cardinal Glennon Children's Hospital and St. Louis Children's Hospital.

Blues fans of all ages are invited to attend this afternoon of family fun, which will take place Sunday, Feb. 1 from 4-7 p.m. at U.S. Ice Complex. Blues skating for Miracles includes skating with Blues players, snacks, autographs and photo opportunities, a raffle, an auction of Blues memorabilia and a slap shot contest for fans.

Granite City High graduate Matt Little led the SIUE-Edwardsville soccer team in every offensive category in 1997.

Little named All-American

By Patrick C. Heston
Staff writer

Add another honor to Matt Little's resume. A native of Granite City and a graduate of Granite City High School, Little not only led the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville soccer Cougars in every offensive category for the 1997 season, but was also selected to the First Team of both the All-Great Lakes Valley Conference and All-Midwest teams.

But last week Little added to his post-season accolades as the junior midfielder was named to the NCAA Division II Men's Soccer All-American First Team by a vote of the National Soccer Coaches Association of America.

Little scored 13 goals and distributed 11 assists for the Cougars this season. His assist total tied him with four other players for the SIUE single-season assist record. His point total (37) is the most in a single season for the Cougars since 1979.

Transferring from Western Illinois University for the 1997 season, Little brings a nearly unparalleled passion to the field of play. "He plays so big on the field, primarily because he has so much passion and heart," said Cougars head coach Ed Huneke. "In turn, this becomes a leadership by example factor for our team that raises the intensity level of every player around him."

Unfortunately for opponents, but fortunately for SIUE, Little will be back for the 1998 season. It could be a banner campaign, landing Little a host of records, not just on the SIUE books, but on the national ledgers as well.

Next year, said Huneke, "and not just because of his statistical potential. He has an enviable attitude and work ethic that he lead to bigger and better things, both for him and for the team as a whole."

The Cougars won the GLVC and were ranked 11th in the nation this season.

Warriors face Jacksonville in 1st round at Collinsville

By Brian Bretsch
Staff writer

The question facing Granite City as it prepares itself for the Collinsville-Schnucks Holiday Classic is whether they will be 100 percent healthy.

Granite opens up play at the 14th annual classic against third-seeded Jacksonville at 10:30 a.m. Monday.

Granite (6-4) got off to a fantastic start at the Alton Tournament, but the Warriors have had their share of woes of late. It's mainly because the team has had to play without Chris Tindall, who missed time because of the flu and Dustin Brewer, who has missed the last four games because of a wrist injury.

"We don't know if he (Brewer) will be ready," Granite coach John Van Buskirk said. "That's a question that is up in the air yet. We sure hope so because it will make us better."

"We're not a bad basketball team with all the kids in there. We have been playing seven kids pretty strong. They complement each other. We're pretty happy with what has been going on so far."

Minus Tindall and Brewer, the Warriors have been struggling cleaning the glass. They will need both to try and stop Jacksonville's Marty Perry, a 6-foot-10 force who can rebound but is also strong from behind the 3-point arc.

Perry, a signee with Valparaiso University, is averaging about 22 points per game while hitting 56 percent of his field goals — including more than 40 percent of his 3-pointers. He transferred to Jacksonville from Chatham Glenwood last season.

"The reason we got off to a good start is we really played our type of game," Van Buskirk said. "We dictated the play. For example, Alton likes to run a lot and we slowed them down. I thought we played our style of basketball. With Chris Tindall (6-foot-6) and Dustin Brewer (6-5) both in there at the same time — they rebound pretty well — so we were only giving up one shot at a time. Obviously that is toward our advantage. Those were the types of things

THE LAW AND YOU

By RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Sometimes an automobile accident will occur in which there is minimal damage to the Plaintiff's vehicle. In some of these cases, the Plaintiff driver will claim that he sustained a personal injury, and he will seek compensation from the Defendant's insurance company. The question that arises in these cases is whether or not a soft tissue personal injury can arise when there is minimal property damage.

It is important to understand that there are four questions to be answered in any personal injury auto accident case. First, it must be determined who was at fault. Secondly, was the Plaintiff injured and how badly? Thirdly, did the Defendant driver have insurance at the time of the accident? And fourthly, what was the amount of property damage to the Plaintiff's car?

In one recent case, a woman (Plaintiff) was stopped at a stop sign when she was rear-ended by a drunk driver (Defendant). In fact, the Defendant was so intoxicated that he then backed into the car behind him. After the accident, he drove away and fled the accident scene. The police arrested him the next day and charged him with leaving the scene of an accident.

In this case, there was only two hundred dollars damage to the Plaintiff's vehicle. However, the Plaintiff maintained that she sustained neck and back injuries, and she immediately sought treatment at the emergency room, she then treated with a chiropractor and ultimately consulted with an orthopedic surgeon. The diagnosis with regard to her injury was cervical strain, and she was still having headaches and back problems several months after the accident.

Can a person in fact be injured when there is minimal damage to the Plaintiff's car? Certainly there is medical literature to support the possibility of injury with relatively minor impacts. Studies have been conducted by orthopedic surgeons and neurosurgeons that demonstrate the possibility of whiplash injury even where minimal property damage is involved.

If the Plaintiff in a minor case sustains a personal injury, he or she should certainly pursue a claim. However, even though medical literature supports the possibility of injuries in these cases, the injured Plaintiff will still have to demonstrate to the insurance company or the jury that in fact he or she was injured.

"We were doing."

Tindall did return to play in the Warriors last game against Belleville East and pumped in 20 points in first game back.

If Brewer's returns in time for the Classic, Van Bockler expects the Warriors to make some noise.

"You always have to go into the tournament with the idea you want to make sure you get to play four basketball games," Van Bockler said. "It is very simple, the second game in that tournament is by far the most important game. It lets you play a couple of more games in a couple more days. You have to go in with the attitude of wanting to play four games and obviously, the championship is what your goal is."

The winner of the Granite City-Jacksonville game will face East St. Louis Lincoln or Triad in a quarterfinal game at 1 p.m. Tuesday. Consolation quarterfinals start at 9 a.m. Tuesday.

•Team—

Wilson (8-8) of Chicago Marshall, George Clark (6-11) of Elgin, "Bumpy" Nixon (6-7) of Galesburg, and even Bogie Redmon (6-6) of Collinsville. It was hard to compete seriously at that level without similar size and strength. I think we might have won it all that year—at least have seriously contended—if we had a big man."

Super-sub Harry Cook agreed. "That would have made a huge difference," he said. "I think of our game against West Frankfort in the super-sectional. They had good size and they used it well against us—as well as any team we played that year. If we had some size to counter them, I think we would have won handily. That's all we really needed as a team."

But even without the luxury of extra height, the Warriors were among the elite teams in Illinois during the 1959-60 season.

All-stater Rich Williams, a 5-11 senior, had won the Southwestern Conference scoring title his sophomore and junior campaigns. In 1960, he averaged 21 points per game while finishing third in the SWC points chase.

"Williams was as good a pure shooter as any player I ever coached," said Sullivan. "He was an exceptional student of shooting, very conscientious about perfecting his game, and it showed on the basketball court game-in and game-out."

Cook said of Williams, "He was a phenomenal outside shooter. He was deadly from what is now three-point territory. If they'd had the three-point arc back then, he's no telling how many points Williams would have scored."

Fred Riddle, once a teammate of Williams' who lived in Madison and an opponent when he played for Collinsville in 1960, agreed. He added, "Rich was a phenomenal ball-handler as well. He was such a prolific scorer that you tended to forget how he handled the ball. But he could dribble through or around anyone at any press. Rich simply did so many things, and he did all of them well."

Joining Williams in the back court was another all-stater, 6-2 Bob Price, the red-headed captain who shot in excess of 90 per cent from the free throw line during his career at GCHS.

"Price was as good a clutch player as I ever saw. You could search from now 'til forever and never find a better one," Sullivan said. "He and Williams were the two best guards I ever coached. They were undoubtedly the best pair of guards in the state that year. Somebody may have had one better guard—maybe—but nobody had two. If one wasn't hitting, the other was. And when they were hot, they just didn't miss."

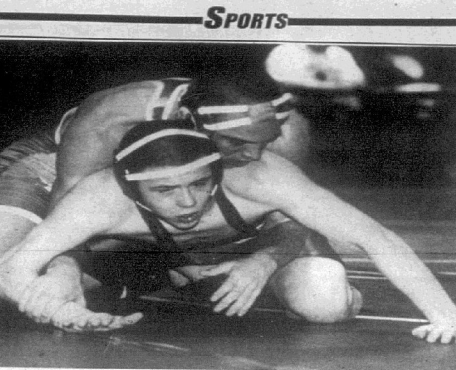

Simpson, a 6-3 junior, was the poorest free throw shooter among the five starters, hitting at a very good 75 per cent clip. But, said Sullivan, "Simpson was the best fourth quarter free throw shooter I have ever seen. Teams would foul him late, because he had the worst percentage on our team—which was still very good—and that was a mistake. He shot well over 90 per cent from the line in the fourth quarter."

Junior Frank Knight, at 6-2, was a strong rebounder and a solid offensive contributor. "He was underrated as a shooter," Sullivan pointed out. "Most guys on the team were, because of how well Williams and Price shot by comparison. But we were very good shooting team all-around. And I remember that Frank Knight had an outstanding shot from the corner. He was extremely dangerous with the ball in his hands."

Carl Wortham, 6-2½, was captain of the squad and could score points in bunches, as his team-leading 17 points against West Frankfort in the super-sectional proved. But, "Wotham's forte was his defense," said Sullivan. "He was a strong, hard-nosed defensive player. He anchored our defense, which was very good."

Of Cook and Harry Smith, the first two men off the bench, Sullivan remarked, "They could have started for nearly any other team in Illinois in 1960. That's how good they were. That's how deep we were."

With the height to match the depth, as well as their overall skill, the Warriors' 1959-60 season might not have ended at East St. Louis with a "Sweet Sixteen" loss, but at Collinsville, they paid with a state championship.

ville, the state's second-ranked team. Down 20-10 early in the second quarter, Granite City raced back to 31-31 tie at the half. With Williams, Price and Knight doing most of the damage in the second half, the Warriors took 48-45 lead after three quarters.

The Hawks drew even at 48-48 with 7:30 left in the game, but GCHS moved quickly ahead by four and never looked back. Collinsville got within two, 62-60, on a Bogie Redmon fielder with 3:01 to play, but Williams and Price widened the gap to 68-60 and the Warriors coasted to a 72-65 victory.

Williams led the Granite City attack with 20 points. Knight followed with 18, Wortham finished with 15, Simpson netted 11 and Price had eight.

With a convincing 68-52 win over Dupu in the first game of the East St. Louis Sectional, the Warriors drew the number one ranked team in the state, 30-1 Piquetteville, in the sectional finale. The Panthers, who had lost only to Sparta on the season, leveled Litchfield in the semifinals.

Granite City took a 15-13 first quarter lead and built on it the rest of the way, leading 58-25 at the half and 51-42 after three. The Warriors upset the sectional favorite 75-66.

Price set the pace with 20 points for the winners. Williams was next with 19 and Knight scored 17.

The win sent the 25-5 Warriors to the East St. Louis Super-Sectional for a date with 58-58 West Frankfort, which was coming off identical 71-69 double-overtime wins against Metropolis and Mounds Douglass in sectional action.

In an unforgettable game, the two squads battled to a 58-58 deadlock at the end of regulation with Frank Knight, the fielder from the left corner drawing iron at the buzzer.

West Frankfort opened a quick 62-58 lead in the first extra session, but Williams scored, then Knight, with 48 seconds remaining, to knot the score at 62-62. Dave Pike missed a close-in shot under West Frankfort's basket during the scuffle for the rebound, the Warriors' Bill McDowell was fouled with only four seconds showing on the clock. McDowell stepped to the line at the other end for the one-and-one opportunity he missed the free throw, sending the squads into sudden death.

1960 was the first year of sudden death in Illinois basketball. Once teams reached the second overtime, the first squad to score two points won the game.

Bob Brown grabbed the tip and passed to Bryan Wilkinson who was fouled. Wilkinson made the first shot, but missed the one that would have tied the game. The miss left West Frankfort with a 63-62 lead. When Price missed a 15-footer at the other end which, if good, would have won it for the Warriors, Pike pulled down the rebound and was fouled. His free throw found the mark, and West Frankfort had its third straight sudden-death victory at the Warriors' expense, 64-62.

Wortham tallied 17 points in a losing effort, 14 of them in the second half. Knight added 14, Price picked up 13 and Williams scored 12, nearly 10 points below his season average.

Granite City ended the 1960 campaign with a mark of 26-6. West Frankfort went on to finish third in the state tournament, drubbing Decatur 75-53 in the consolation contest.

"The game against Granite City in the super-sectional was the greatest game of my life," said Wilkinson, who would later teach and coach at Granite City. "I got more points in that game than any other game in my career. The reason was that our big center, (Tim) Weaver, got in early foul trouble. I was the next tallest player, so I was put in at center and the team just kept feeding me the ball."

Rich Williams also remembers that game well. "West Frankfort did a very good job against us, but we might have overestimated ourselves," he said. "Honestly, after looking back on it after all these years, I think that after beating Collinsville—which was an intense rivalry and, in many ways, the emotional highlight of our year—and then beating West Frankfort, it was kind of a letdown to play West Frankfort."

That's taking nothing away from West Frankfort. They deserved to win. It's just that it would have been a letdown to play almost anybody at that age. I'm saying it that emotionally we had a big letdown."

But Sullivan chooses to remember the team, not the game. "They were a great group of kids, just a great group," he said. "They were fun to coach as they were to watch. Nobody who watched them could help but enjoy them. And nobody who watched them could ever forget them."

two years running. "What a team we would have had if we had all stayed together in Madison," mused Cook. "That would have been one great team. A super team. In addition to great talent, those players had good chemistry and good camaraderie. We had played together for so long that we knew each other very well. We could anticipate cuts and passes. It would have been a great team. It would have been fun."

Williams, too, wondered how good the Trojans would have been. "There's no telling how far that team might have gone those two years," he said. "If everyone had stayed in Madison, wow! It would have been very interesting. There wouldn't have been enough room for all that good talent. Half or more of them would have been riding the bench. But, my, what a team it would have been! I think, though, that they might have had the same problem we had in Granite City. A big man. Not sure anybody could have beaten us, or have even stayed with us. ## Universal holiday

Seasonal rituals not limited to American traditions

While decking the halls around St. Louis, some give Christmas a foreign flair. People of other national origins often maintain some of their native holiday customs though they live in the United States. St. Louis has its share of those celebrating Christmas customs of other lands.

Each year the Swedish Council of St. Louis hosts a pageant celebrating the custom of Santa Lucia.

This Italian saint was adopted by the Swedes in the early 1900s. Since then, Dec. 13 has been her day, said Lotte Fox, a member of the council and a Clayton resident.

On that day, the oldest daughter in a family wakes before dawn to take breakfast to her parents, who are still in bed. She wears a white gown with a red sash and a crown of candles and lingonberries. The main Christmas celebration is on Dec. 24, when Santa Claus, known as "Jul Tomte," comes to visit the children. He dresses much like our American-style Santa and is accompanied by elves.

The season officially ends on Jan. 13, the "20 of Knut," when the tree is thrown out.

In Ethiopia, Christmas is celebrated on Jan. 7, because the Ethiopian calendar is different from the European calendar, said Gedlu Metaferia, who lives in the Central West End. He is director of the Ethiopian Community Association.

Most of Christmas Eve night is spent in religious services reciting a liturgy, praying and singing.

Though there is no Christmas tree as in the United States, people bring fresh plants and grasses into their homes, Metaferia said.

The plants symbolize good will, optimism and belonging to nature and to God.

One of the most important parts of any Christmas is the food.

Swedes eat a Christmas smorgasbord of ham, Swedish meatballs, herring, salmon, red cabbage, bread and mustard, and people drink a hot spiced wine called "glogg."

Breakfast on the day of Santa Lucia consists of coffee, saffron bread and gingersnaps.

The evening of Dec. 24 in Czechoslovakia is celebrated with a dinner of carp or other fish and fish soup, in (See FOOD, Page 5B)

Food

keeping with a tradition of not eating other meat on Christmas for religious reasons.
The Christmas Day meal consists of roast duck or goose with dumplings, sauerkraut and Christmas bread called "anocka." It is a semisweet braided yeast bread with nuts and raisins inside.
In Ethiopia, the Christmas feast usually includes mutton or goat meat, "injera," which is shaped into a pancake and served with a meat sauce, bread and homemade wine or beer.

In France, Christmas Eve, "Le Reveillon," is celebrated with a dinner of oysters on the half shell along with a turkey or a goose, and people eat "bouche de Noel," a decorated cake shaped like a yule log.
Thick hot chocolate is an important part of Christmas in Peru, and the Christmas feast usually consists of turkey, rice, tamales and a special sweet bread with raisins called "panetton."

Rituals

he said, Christmas falls during harvest time, and the day is mostly spent relaxing and playing "Gena."
Gena is synonymous with the holiday of the same name, Metaferia said, and is a game played with a wooden club and ball. It is similar to a combination of polo and golf.
Children and adults play Gena in the fields while the elderly sit and watch.

An Ethiopian saying is that on Gena's Day, the Lord won't be angry, Metaferia said.

In Ethiopia, there is no Santa figure and no exchange of gifts, he said, though children often receive new clothes.
"Pere Noel" comes to visit children in France. He is not fat, but instead is dressed like a monk in wooden shoes and a hooded red robe tied with a rope around the waist, said Jacques Chicoineau, a Creve Coeur resident and president of the French Society.

When Chicoineau was growing up in Paris, adults exchanged gifts on "Les Etrinnes," Jan. 1, but Christmas was more for children, he said.

Children put their shoes in front of the fireplace so Pere Noel could fill them with presents.

Department stores in Paris were always elaborately decorated, Chicoineau said, and crowds would walk the streets to look at them.
Christmas in Peru begins nine days before Christmas Eve, when families and friends begin gathering together every night to pray and sing, said Anibal Zambrano, of Warson Woods.
Then on Dec. 24, teens gather in groups representing the shepherds and the three wise men from the story of Christ's birth. They begin walking through towns singing songs at about 7 p.m., Zambrano said.

This is one of the most important parts of the celebration, he said. The teens carry lamps and continue until midnight when most people attend a midnight Mass.
The main decorations are manger scenes, Zambrano said. The figures are dressed in traditional Peruvian clothing, and the animals are like those found in Peru as well, such as llamas.

'Titanic'

— Stars: Leonardo DiCaprio, Kate Winslet, Bill Paxton, Billy Zane
— Movie type: romance/disaster
— Running time: 3 hours, 14 minutes
— Showing at: ALTON, BELLEVILLE QUAD, CLARKSON, CREVE COEUR, DES PERES, ESQUIRE, EUREKA, 6, GALLERIA, HALLS FERRY, KENRICK, MID RIVERS, NORTHWEST PLAZA, O'FALLON, PETITE 4, PLAZA CINEMA 4, RONNIES, ST. CHARLES, WEST OLIVE 16.

No disaster in the 20th century has tweaked a universal nerve as much as the sinking of the luxury liner Titanic. It has inspired scores of books, documentaries, lectures, movies, TV specials, a hit Broadway musical, and a traveling exhibit of salvaged treasures.

What other spin could a filmmaker possibly conceive? Not much, judging by James Cameron's waterlogged $200 million epic, "Titanic."

It takes 3 hours and 14 minutes for Cameron to sink the boat and show off his special effects. And those remarkable computerized sequences are the only reason to see this very bloated film.

But then, you'd have to sit through more than two hours of a trite, incredibly boring romantic triangle, a story with little to compel it or to move it along except some lovely photography, notably a stunning aerial shot of Titanic's smokestacks, which seem to kiss the camera as the ship majestically sweeps by.

Besides the special effects — truly the star of "Titanic" — the only juice comes from a cameo appearance by Kathy Bates as Molly Brown, one of the 706 survivors among the 2,223 passengers and crew.

Her life was made into a Broadway musical and the 1964 movie, "The Unsinkable Molly Brown." Bates jazzes things up a bit with her early, down-home take on the machinations of the rich.

Unlike the 1958 British film "A Night to Remember," which focused on the human tragedy and established characters whose plight we could feel and imagine, Cameron, who also wrote the screenplay, gets his characters from the stock room of the Hollywood movie mill.

The movie opens with a Titanic salvage operation run by a jaded surfer boy-treasure hunter (Bill Paxton) and his quixotic sidekick: The overweight, bearded geek in T-shirt who's a marvel with all the newest technology. They're seeking the stateroom of a wealthy passenger named Cal Hockley (Billy Zane), whose safe may hold a priceless diamond.

Instead, they find a sketch of Rose DeWitt Bukater (Kate Winslet), a passenger who survived the Titanic and who was engaged to Hockley. Now 101 and played as an old woman by Gloria Stuart, she joins the expedition to help find the diamond, called The Heart of the Ocean, and to exorcise some old ghosts. She brings along her granddaughter, Lizzy (Suzy Amis), who provides wuzy dressing for the dive ship.

As Rose, Lizzy and the crew watch a camera sweep over the wreck more than 2 miles below the ocean's surface, trick editing melds the present with the past and we're soon aboard the Titanic as it plows through the North Atlantic to its fatal encounter with an iceberg on April 14-15, 1912.

Rose is a 17-year-old poor little rich girl. Well, sort of. It seems the family fortune is gone and her mother has arranged for her to marry the wealthy Cal, a brutish bore. But instead, Rose falls in love with Jack Dawson (Leonardo DiCaprio), a struggling artist who won his passage on Titanic in a poker game.

Needless to say, Cal and his sadistic valet Spicer (David Warner), with an assist from Rose's class-conscious mother (Frances Fisher), do everything to split up the young lovers. Cal also tries to publicly belittle Jack — the old upper-crust snobbery routine.

But the lovers manage to steal one night of passion, and Cal sketches Rose wearing nothing but The Heart of the Ocean around her neck. You've seen it all before in countless movies and TV soap operas. With Cameron's sappy dialogue, Zane's scenery-chewing and DiCaprio's adolescent ramblings, the romance drags on and on and on until you wish the boat would sink already.

From the initial swipe of the iceberg to the last shot of an ice-capped sea, the James Cameron of "Terminator II," "Abyss" and "Aliens" is back at his best. The movie begins to put a little steam in its stride. Although computers figure heavily in creating the snapping of the boat and bodies tumbling into the ocean, the effect is dazzling and frightful.

An eerie moment comes when a few sinks, thrusting the stern out of the water and upright before it slips into the sea. Jack and Rose cling to the outer railing of the stern, looking down on the poor souls sliding to their deaths. It is a breathtaking shot.

Cameron and his talented crew are to be commended for their production design, the underwater shots of the real Titanic wreck, the costuming and editing — and especially the innovative technology used in filming.

Too bad the same amount of care was not used in the storytelling. Because the real problem with this film is fairly simple: It has no heart.

Early in the film, Jack Dawson offers a piece of advice: Live your life now because every moment matters.

A Paramount Pictures and Twentieth Century Fox release, "Titanic" was produced by Cameron and Jon Landau and is rated PG-13. — Associated Press

Tellers of tall tales

HOROSCOPE

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 24
Early this morning, the moon slips into emotional Scorpio. Honesty is easy to come by and, in some cases, quite difficult to hear! Be gentle, and you can make amazing connections with interesting parties. Many of you are lucky in love. Singles will meet their dream partners while shopping. Couples will be reunited. Once you've made a financial decision, there's no turning back.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Dec. 24): You are a person of courage and conviction, which is why the world is responding to you with more respect than ever before. February brings an important and lasting love. Those in charge at work will reward you for excellent habits in March and May, your biggest money months. A relationship is serious and headed toward long-term commitment in June.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You are generous with the ones you love, but remind yourself not to over spend! Parties are exciting because of your fun-loving mood. Everything you do carries your own special imprint.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your mind is extraordinarily acute and effective. A variety of experiences contribute to the quality of your work. A private rendezvous will recharge your energy. Make it possible for peace and quiet to rule the evening hours.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21): A limitation is ultimately what moves you to the next level. Focus on what makes you special.

CANCER (June 22-July 22): Someone from your past assumes a role in your present. An elaborate scenario contributes to love at first sight. People who seem unfeeling actually have been hurt too many times to be trusting. Don't take it to heart.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): It is a blast to be the center of the action and calling all the shots for a change. Your domestic situation calms down. Be careful not to get in the way of clear communication. You excel when you teach and educate others.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Be spontaneous without abandoning a plan altogether. Guard your privacy carefully. Love is easygoing. Take a sweetheart outdoors, engage in contemplative conversation, and play!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23): Your most mysterious persona is what attracts romance. Information you acquire accidentally puts you ahead of the competition. Think you are, and you will be. It's just a matter of staying on track. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21): Forces are propelling you forward, so relax. There is a strong correlation between your ambitions and the power to turn them into a lifestyle. Your travel plans change once again. You will meet someone impressive tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Promise a sweetie just enough to keep him or her interested, but not enough to make you doubt your ability to deliver. Someone who is now launching a risky project will soon be rich. Be supportive.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Casual connections lead to serious love. Coy attempts and fantastic flirtations get people talking. Accept last-minute invites. Let your strong personality shine through. Saying nothing will weaken your position.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your self-esteem is high. Important contacts should be re-established. Luck comes to those who work in teams. Whether shopping or participating in activities, put the good of the group first, and you will win.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Experience gained through money spent is well worth it. Spend time when there are several people celebrating, especially if you are with a date. Parcel out your energy wisely, as demands are made in the final hours.

Help available for finding scholarships

A conservative estimate of college costs for a full-time student runs from $10,000-$30,000. High cost colleges can run from $40,000-$100,000.

Most parents and students think that scholarships are only for the students with excellent grades, low-income families, or the athletically inclined.

Though the majority of scholarships are from the federal government and are merit and/or need-based, billions of dollars are available to students from private sector scholarships. Much of private sector financial aid goes unused because the parents and students do not know how or where to apply.

There are organizations that have spent hundreds of hours in research locating scholarship sources. The U.S. Commission for Scholastic Assistance — College Bound is such an organization and supplies the public with more than 700 different private scholarship sources. The scholarship list includes the scholarship names, addresses, application deadlines, summaries about the scholarships and the amount the scholarship will pay.

For information on obtaining these scholarship lists, send a self-addressed, stamped, business size, #10 envelope to: The U.S. Commission for Scholastic Assistance, P.O. Box 668, O'Fallon, Ill. 62269.

HOW TO...

PLACE AN AD

There are four easy ways to place your ad:

BRING IT 113 E. Clay St., Collinsville, IL 62234

PHONE IT Call 344-0264. Phone lines are open from 8am-5pm Monday-Friday.

FAX IT Send your ad directly to our Classified Fax Center at (618) 344-3611. We'll call you back for confirmation.

MAIL IT Send your ad to: Class, Collinsville Journal, 113 E. Clay Street, Collinsville, IL 62234.

PAY FOR AN AD

You will be billed immediately following last run day. You may pay in person, through the mail, or over the phone or fax. We accept cash, checks and credit cards (MC/Visa).

Discover: When paying over the phone, please have your credit card ready. When faxing your ad, just include your credit card number. We'll call you back for confirmation. Please do not send cash through the mail. Some ads require prepayment.

WRITE AN AD

Capture the reader's attention with larger headlines, bold type and symbols. Tell them up front what you're selling or seeking. Describe what is unique about your firm, adding details such as color and condition. Avoid abbreviations; make your ad harder to read and therefore less effective. Include your phone number and the hours you are available. Always include the price; it will increase your responses.

CANCEL AN AD

Deadlines for ad cancellations are identical to deadlines for ad placement. You may cancel an ad in person or over the phone. To cancel an ad, phone (618) 344-0264.
